The Central Labor Union received a communication from the tentral Labor Federation yesterday in answer to a request from the body to amalgamate with it in one central body. The communication stated that it was impossible for the C. L. F. to combine with the C. L. U. for the reason that the latter body did not recognize independent political action as the only means by which the worker could emancipate himself from wage-slavery. The C. L. F. stated that, while it deplored the fact that it could not join the body and thus create one central body in the city, it must nevertheless recognize that the economic organization of the laboring class must be supplemented by a political organization in order to achieve their emancipation. Therefore, all trades unions should units upon one political platform and conquer the powers of state for the abolition of all class privileges. A committee, comp, sed of Delegates Howard Raikam, James P. Archibaid, Chas Schneppe, William F. Connolly and Phil Kelly, were appointed to draft a proper answer to the communication.
